

Video title:

Does cyber security offer varied career paths?

Transcript:

As I look around the National Cyber Security Centre, I see people from many, many different backgrounds. Whether they're communications experts, lawyers, procurement experts, system engineers – all of them have a part to play in cyber security. What we're particularly looking for is people who have a real passion for technology.