Transcript:

It's about understanding the risks and managing those risks because, ultimately, connecting to the internet is a risk. But we all want to, we all have to, we all need to because that's part of life today. So, what we have to do is manage the risk of connecting. And, sometimes, risks happen, and when they happen – how do you manage the impact? How do you reduce the harm that might happen as a result of those risks being realised? So, that for me is cyber security. It's all about how we reduce the risk, and when risks go wrong how do we reduce the harm? That's cyber security.
