

Video title:

What's surprising about the CyberFirst university bursary?

Transcript:

I think the diversity surprised me most. I went to the assessment centre somewhat naïve, thinking that everybody would be technical and geeky, and I was worried that I was an odd one out.

But actually, when I went there, it was such a diverse breadth of people and from different backgrounds, skill bases, but we all found that we were all very curious and wanted a challenge, so we all sort of clicked together in different ways. So, yeah, definitely the people.

Privacy statement:

Please note that the views and information expressed were prepared in a personal capacity. As such, they are reflective of the individual and are not representative of any official policies, positions or opinions held by IBM.